From David’s Desk:

This morning in my meditation I was reading in the Epistle of James. This little book has been the topic of much discussion in the Christian Church over the centuries.

It is a book that talked about how we are to live out this life as proclaim ourselves as Christians.

Many think that it over emphasizes what we know as “works” but I tend to disagree. I strongly feel that this letter tells us much about how we are to treat everyone, control our tongue and language, how virtues flow from God’s wisdom and evil flows from earthly wisdom. It is indeed a book to help guide our lives.

This morning when I read the fourth chapter, I was taken aback by verse 17 which reads, “Anyone, then, who knows the right thing to do and fails to do it, commits sin.” James 4:17 NRSV.

Wow, what a statement! Do I while I try realize what is expected of me as a believer in Jesus Christ? Do any of us really take that verse seriously?

We know that we are expected to no do evil. How are to react to when we fail to do the right thing in any situation? We are to ask forgiveness, to humble ourselves before God and to act in accordance with the will of our loving God whose grace gives us the power to do as we should.

Remember Ashes to Go, Wednesday, March 1, 2017, from 9:00 am to 10:00 am.
